

NADAMAN'S SAKE SELECTION

A variety of sake and shochu from the north and south of Japan are available. They are distinguished by the type of rice used in fermentation and the degree to which the rice is polished, known as seimai buai.

These special designation sakes are categorised into:

Junmai: pure rice wine

Ginjyo: rice weight polished to 60%

Junmai-Ginjyo: pure rice wine with rice weight polished to 60%

Daiginjyo: rice weight polished to 50%

Junmai-Daiginjyo: pure rice wine with rice weight polished to 50%

Honjozo: rice weight polished to 70%

* SMV: Sake Metre Value (-5 = sweet / +5 = dry)
