YOUR TAILOR-MADE EVENT AT SHANGRI-LA PARIS

FROM PRINCE ROLAND BONAPARTE TO SHANGRI-LA PARIS

In 1896, the Palais located at 10 avenue d'Iéna was Prince Roland Bonaparte's former home and the meeting place of the Parisian scene. 114 years later, renovated by the architect Richard Martinet, this residence is once again ready to welcome guests with the opening of Shangri-La Paris. Listed as a Historical Monument since 2009, this hotel offers a unique alliance between Asia hospitality and French art de vivre.

YOUR GOURMET MOMENTS

SHANGRI-LA PARIS CHEFS

Quentin Testart – Executive Chef

At the age of 28, Quentin Testart joins Shangri-La Paris and becomes the youngest Executive Chef in the Parisian Palaces.

Originally from Paris, but in love with Brittany where his family roots lie, his career began at La Bonne Table, which took him from the fish stalls of Lorient to those of Rungis. At Les Fables de la Fontaine, then at La Maison Blanche, he learned the precision and creativity of Michelin-starred cuisine. At Thierry Marx's La Villa, he landed his first position as Chef and Restaurant Manager, before joining the Royal Monceau - Raffles as the Executive Chef's right-hand man.

Maxence Barbot – Pastry Chef

Maxence Barbot, Pastry Chef at Shangri-La Paris since 2019, is undoubtedly one of the biggest names on the French pastry scene.

It was his family who first gave the young Breton a taste for the sweet arts. He began his career at the Plaza Athénée, then at the Four Seasons, and quickly became Vice-Champion of France for plated desserts. In 2016, he took up the position of sous-chef at the Plaza Athénée, where he co-created the pastry offering at the five-star Avenue Montaigne. Today, his outstanding sweet creations contribute to the international renown of Shangri-La Paris.
