Your wedding in a Princely residence

From Prince Roland Bonaparte to Shangri-La Paris

In 1896, the Palace at 10 avenue d'Iéna was the home of Prince Bonaparte and a meeting place for the Parisian bourgeoisie. 114 years later, restored by architect Richard Martinet, the palace is once again ready to welcome the world's greats with the opening of Shangri-La Paris. Listed as a Historical Monument since 2009, the Palace offers a unique blend of Asian hospitality and French art de vivre.

The path that will lead you to our princely home

Our hotel is located in a 19th century residence in the elegant 16th arrondissement of Paris, one of the most prestigious neighborhoods in the city.

The hotel is 45 minutes away from Charles de Gaulle Airport and 30 minutes away from Paris Orly Airport.

Paris' six major train stations are within easy reach and the Iéna Metro station is located within a few minutes' walk.

Airport transfers

There are several options to reach the Shangri-La Paris. Guests can choose between a hotel limousine pick-up, a taxi or the metro.

Taxi and limousine services can also be easily spotted at the airport.

Your Reception rooms

A secular ceremony, an engagement, a wedding ... The function rooms of Shangri-La Paris do offer a set of 350m². This area reminds the most beautiful receptions of All Paris at the end of the nineteenth century organized at the residence of Prince Roland Bonaparte, or simply the Prince, his mother and daughter, in their intimacy.

The Grand Salon, the Salle à Manger & the Salon de Famille are three communicating function rooms classified as Historical Monuments, overlooking the Gallery on the first floor as well as on a sumptuous terrace with a view of the Eiffel Tower.

The total area of this space is 790 m².

The Grand Salon

The Grand Salon, decorated in Louis XIV style and with a view on the avenue d'Iena, features an immense white marble fireplace, decorated with bronze and a trumeau mirror. The two gilded wooden consoles covered with marble and the crystal chandeliers are original. The architecture is full of details, crowns and bees. It is undoubtedly the heart of the Bonaparte and Shangri-La Paris receptions.

Shangri-La Paris' Chefs

Quentin Testart – Executive Chef

At the age of 28, Quentin Testart joins Shangri-La Paris and becomes the youngest Executive Chef in the Parisian Palaces.

Originally from Paris, but in love with Brittany where his family roots lie, his career began at La Bonne Table, which took him from the fish stalls of Lorient to those of Rungis. At Les Fables de la Fontaine, then at La Maison Blanche, he learned the precision and creativity of Michelin-starred cuisine. At Thierry Marx's La Villa, he landed his first position as Chef and Restaurant Manager, before joining the Royal Monceau – Raffles as the Executive Chef's right-hand man.

Maxence Barbot – Pastry Chef

Maxence Barbot, Pastry Chef at Shangri-La Paris since 2019, is undoubtedly one of the biggest names on the French pastry scene.

It was his family who first gave the young Breton a taste for the sweet arts. He began his career at the Plaza Athénée, then at the Four Seasons, and quickly became Vice-Champion of France for plated desserts. In 2016, he took up the position of sous-chef at the Plaza Athénée, where he co-created the pastry offering at the five-star Avenue Montaigne. Today, his outstanding sweet creations contribute to the international renown of Shangri-La Paris.
